Updated Meeting Chat Access in Microsoft Teams

SECURE OFFICE

What is new?

Microsoft Teams has launched new updates to provide more secure meeting experiences for users.

Now, people who added to a meeting via a meeting link and were not added to the original meeting invite will no longer have access to chats, files, notes, and other meeting content after the meeting ends.

These people will continue to have access to meeting resources during the meeting but lose access once the meeting ends.

It is important to note that these changes are only reflected in recurring meetings scheduled after April 2021.

What are the benefits?

These updates to participant chat provide an extra layer of protection as only the intended participants have access to meeting-specific resources.

This facilitates a more contained meeting environment and improved information management.
